Community Foundation of West Georgia Awards Over $387,000 to Local Organizations

CARROLLTON, Ga. – Through the extraordinary generosity of donors and fundholders, the Community Foundation of West Georgia is proud to announce more than $387,000 in grant funding awarded to 35 transformative organizations serving Carroll, Haralson and Heard counties. These grants reflect a shared commitment to strengthening our region and creating opportunities that enrich the lives of individuals and families throughout West Georgia.

These investments represent far more than financial support. They tell a story of a connected community dedicated to building a brighter tomorrow for West Georgia. From expanding vital human services to creating new opportunities for children and families, each grant reflects a deep commitment to enriching lives right where we live and work.

At the core of this funding is the Community Foundation of West Georgia Community Impact fund. Designated as a flexible, permanent revenue source, this fund pairs passionate donors with the ever changing pressing needs of our community. Every dollar invested strengthens our region today while building a lasting safety net capable of adapting to future challenges for generations to come.

"Every grant awarded represents a partnership built on trust, purpose and a shared vision for West Georgia." said Mitchell Rogers, President of the Community Foundation of West Georgia. "We are thankful to the donors who contribute to the Community Impact fund. More than 30 local organizations now have the critical resources they need to continue to expand their reach and uplift families across Carroll, Haralson & Heard counties."

As local nonprofits put these funds into action over the coming months, The Community Foundation of West Georgia remains committed to fostering local partnerships, amplifying community strengths and ensuring every donor's passion translates into lasting, positive change.
